

Beyond Information Packaging

At Eckhart & Company, we recognize the value of a trusted business partner. As your customers expect more from you, it's perhaps more important than ever to place your projects only in the hands of those you trust. So while you may know us for our complete range of information and multimedia packaging capabilities, you may not recognize that we also offer comprehensive bookbinding and print finishing capabilities.

Every day at Eckhart & Company, we complete projects that take advantage of both our information packaging and bookbinding/print finishing capabilities. Here are two such examples: Cased-in Wire-O Books

Wire-O binding is valued for its lay-flat capabilities and modern appearance. For some Wire-O applications - such as cookbooks and photo albums - a hard cover offers the superior value and durability the customer desires. At Eckhart & Company, we can combine fully automatic Wire-O binding with our complete case binding capabilities to efficiently produce these projects in-house. By performing the binding of the book block and case making simultaneously, we can control quality while offering superior turnaround.

Integrated Product Sets

A key to maximizing the value of an integrated product set is to create packaging with a uniform appearance. For example, a multimedia educational collection may include a series of books and DVD discs housed in a slipcase. A single-source provider such as Eckhart & Company can offer complete production of all of these materials - and offer you multiple design and production choices for each item.

The Eckhart and Company Advantage

If you have a project that combines bookbinding, print finishing and information packaging capabilities, look no further than Eckhart & Company. Our unique combination of services gives you the power to win these projects and create happy customers.
