

Diploma Holders

It's only March, but that doesn't mean it's too early to start planning for upcoming school graduations. Every graduate in America will receive an all-important diploma, and most will be housed in a certificate holder befitting such an achievement.

Multiple-panel holders are ideal for display on a table, while a punched hole allows for wall mounting. Award certificate holders can also be designed to hold a picture along with the certificate. Here are a few of our most popular decorating options for both the inside and outside of the certificate holder:

Turned Edge- This process involves turning the edges of a substrate over a board to form a decorative wrap. For most certificate holders, the board is padded chipboard. We can then decorate this material with foil stamping, screen printing or debossing. On the inside, a silk moire sheet is mounted to or turned over an SBS (solid bleed sulfate) board.

Heat-sealed Vinyl – Two sheets of vinyl are sealed around either a padded or non-padded board. The outside sheet is often decorated with either foil stamping or screen printing.

Pajco™ – This is a brand name for a popular flush-cut material used for certificate holders. A single sheet of SBS or moire may be used to hold the certificate with four corner ribbons.
